Showing versus telling: Shakespeare’s ekphraseis, visual absences and the cinema

This item was submitted to Loughborough University's Institutional Repository by the/an author.

Additional Information:

• This chapter is taken from, Cartmell, D. and Scott, M.(eds.) Talking Shakespeare: Shakespeare Into the Millennium. Basingstoke: Palgrave, is reproduced with permission of Palgrave Macmillan. This extract is taken from the author’s original manuscript and has not been reviewed or edited. The definitive version of this extract may be found in the work, Talking Shakespeare: Shakespeare Into the Millennium, edited by Cartmell and Scott, which can be purchased from www.palgrave.com.

Metadata Record: https://dspace.lboro.ac.uk/2134/416

Publisher: © Palgrave Macmillan

Please cite the published version.
This item was submitted to Loughborough’s Institutional Repository by the author and is made available under the following Creative Commons Licence conditions.

For the full text of this licence, please go to:
http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nc-nd/2.5/